Hoffa-Backer Gets Union Clean-up Job

WASHINGTON (AP) — Well-posted labor sources say that John F. English—the man picked by the AFL-CIO to clean up the Teamsters Union's dirty linen—is supporting James R. Hoffa for Teamsters president.

Hoffa, Midwest Teamsters boss, is under fire from the Senate Rackets Committee for allegedly joining with New York hoodlums to elect Hoffa's man to head the city's Teamsters affairs.

The 68-year-old English, veteran Teamsters Union national secretary-treasurer, was reached at Chicago, where he's attending an AFL-CIO Executive Council meeting. He declined to discuss his reported support for Hoffa.

But competent sources said English's support just about clinches Hoffa's election at the Teamsters convention in late September. He would take over the Teamsters presidency from Dave Beck, whose use of union funds for personal projects was aired by the Senate probes earlier this year.

When the AFL-CIO ousted Beck as vice president and Executive Council member last May, English was chosen to replace him. George Meany, AFL-CIO president, reported English assured the Executive Council at that time: "We're going to wash our own dirty linen. You and the rest of American labor are going to be proud of us again."

But only Thursday Meany said in Chicago the Teamsters Union, since English made that statement, has made no progress toward ridding its ranks of corruption.

Board to Open Bids Monday for Street

The Salem Board of Education will open bids for labor and materials on the extension of E. Sixth St. at noon Monday in the board office at the High School.

The street will go past the new senior high school now under construction.

Although no bids have been turned into the board office thus far, Business Manager Darrel Fadel said that all bids probably would be turned in Monday morning.

Included in the project is the excavation and grading for a 36-foot wide roadway on the 60-foot right of way and the installation of about 1,100 feet of 15-inch storm sewer.

Also constructed will be a road-bed consisting of a one-inch choke base, seven-inch compacted fill of numbers one and two slag. On top of the base will be applied a compacted two-inch layer of asphalt. Sloped or curved curbing will also be constructed and installed.

The Board of Education and trustees of First Christian Church executed an agreement on April 6 for the church to deed to the board about two and one half acres of land lying between the new high school site and the site of the projected Christian Church edifice.

In return, the board agreed to bear the costs of extending Sixth St. eastward on a curve to N. Union Ave.

The frontal portion of the church building will be flush with the present straight path of E. Sixth St. while the extension will curve to the left. School and church officials say the arrangement will establish a good architectural balance between the school and church buildings which will face each other.

Health Service Reports Drop In Polio Cases

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Public Health Service said today there were only 70 paralytic cases of polio among the 356 cases reported last week.

This compared with 360 paralytic cases alone in the comparative 1956 week, in which a total of 876 cases of all kinds of polio were listed.

The health service said the proportion of paralytic cases is running lower than it was earlier in the year—and this is the time of year the disease is usually steadily increasing.

During the four weeks ended Aug. 10 there were 243 paralytic cases among 1,173 cases of all kinds, or 21 per cent paralytic. The report for the week ended July 13 had shown 37 per cent paralytic cases.

Between Jan. 1 and Aug. 10 there had been 973 paralytic cases among the 2,897 polio cases reported, compared with 2,993 paralytic among the 6,179 listed in the comparable span a year ago. Salk polio vaccine has been credited with reducing the number of paralytic polio cases.

Crew of Ditched U. S. Navy Blimp Rescued at Sea

Fishermen Save 16 After Craft Radios That It's in Trouble

ELIZABETH CITY, N.C. (AP) — The Coast Guard reported that a fishing boat rescued the survivors of a Navy blimp which crashed Thursday night in Pamlico Sound.

The Coast Guard said apparently all 16 members of the crew escaped injury.

The fishing boat took the survivors' raft, or rafts, in tow and proceeded toward a rendezvous with a Coast Guard boat which would take them to either Wanchese or Oregon Inlet, both Coast Guard stations. The crew apparently remained on the raft, or rafts, the Coast Guard said.

A Navy search plane from Oceana Naval Air Station near Virginia Beach, Va., spotted the survivors, the Coast Guard said.

A plane also sighted the wreckage of the blimp in Pamlico Sound, southwest of Oregon Inlet.

Fifty planes, already standing by to search for a missing Navy jet pilot who was picked up by a tanker early today, had searched for the blimp this morning.

An Air Force plane intercepted a distress message shortly before midnight from the blimp, manned by naval reservists on a summer training cruise.

The message stated the blimp en route from Glynn, Ga., to Lakehurst, N. J., was ditching off Cape Hatteras. The Navy said no further word was heard from the craft.

The unidentified Air Force pilot relayed the mayday (distress) message to search and rescue headquarters at Norfolk, which already set up a massive hunt for a Navy jet pilot missing since Thursday in the Atlantic.

These search planes were diverted to the blimp hunt when a tanker early today reported picking up the missing pilot.

Joining the planes in the blimp search were the Coast Guard cutters Chincoteague, Cherokee and Conifer.

The Navy said the destroyer Spickle has been ordered to rendezvous with the tanker and pick up the Navy airman. The rendezvous is expected to be late today.

The Navy said it had no details as to the nature of the blimp's trouble.

An amateur radio operator in Boston said he picked up a radio report the blimp was in trouble and about to ditch in the sea off Norfolk.

The report came shortly after the merchant tanker Western Sun reported the rescue of Lt. Comdr. Waldo A. Atkins, 33, of Virginia Beach, Va., from a life raft in the Atlantic Ocean. Search for the airman was launched Thursday afternoon when his F3H-2 Demon jet was reported missing.

The Western Sun, en route to Beaumont, Tex., said Atkins was

Ike's Foreign Aid Hopes Hinge on Senate Action

Senate Okays 2 Ike Nominees Despite Battle

Agriculture, Power Commission Choices Incur Dem Protest

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two controversial nominees of President Eisenhower were confirmed by the Senate Thursday night despite vigorous Democratic opposition.

By a 50-25 vote, the Senate approved the reappointment of Jerome Kuykendall to the Federal Power Commission. Eisenhower is expected to rename him chairman of the agency.

A few hours later, a 42-32 vote confirmed the nomination of Don Paarlberg as assistant secretary of agriculture.

Underlying the fight against these two nominations was opposition to Eisenhower administration policies in the power and farm fields.

Western Democratic senators accused Kuykendall, who hails from Washington state, of favoring private utilities and natural gas producers.

Defending Kuykendall, Republican senators said his foes were trying to use him as a whipping boy because they have been unable to put across such federal power projects as the Hells Canyon Dam.

Kuykendall now returns to the federal payroll, which he left June 22 when his previous term expired.

Thirty-six Republicans and 14 Democrats joined in voting for his confirmation. Kuykendall was opposed by 23 Democrats and 2 Republicans. The Republicans were Senators Langer of North Dakota and Wiley of Wisconsin.

In the debate on the Paarlberg nomination, his opponents called him "the architect of the economic policies" of the Agriculture Department. These opponents are critical of the department's flexible price support system and other policies which they contend are leading to elimination of the small farmer.

Paarlberg, from Indiana, has been an assistant to Secretary of Agriculture Benson since the beginning of the Eisenhower administration. His supporters said he is well qualified in the field of farm economics.

In the end, 35 Republicans and 7 Democrats voted for his confirmation while 30 Democrats and 2 Republicans — Langer and Young of North Dakota — voted "no."

Afterward, the Senate by voice vote confirmed Paarlberg for a second job, that of a director of the Commodity Credit Corp., which handles the price support program.

Dairymen May Cast Strike Vote Tonight

A meeting of district dairy producers will be held at 8:30 tonight in the Damascus Auction Barn in Damascus.

The meeting, called by the Ohio Dairy Farmers Bargaining Association, is for local producers to vote on what may be a strike against dairies in the Canton-Akron-Youngstown area.

The association has set a Saturday midnight deadline for the strike.

The union is pressing demands for a blanket $5 price for a hundred-weight of blend milk. The strike, if called, could stop the supply of milk to local dairies.

New Feeder Mains Seen Solution In High Areas

Low Water Pressure is Headache For Salem City Water Department

Spigots often run dry in the eastern section of Salem but it isn't because of a lack of rainfall.

Inadequate pressure in the water mains, particularly in the N. Union - Highland Ave. area, arouses the repeated consternation of housewives in that neighborhood.

It is not uncommon for a mere trickle of water to issue from the sink spigots when they are turned on.

The reason for the lack of pressure is explained by City Utilities Superintendent Aubrey Hayes, who is quick to point out that only 250 homes are affected. The water department serves 4,150 other residences.

HAYES POINTS OUT that water pressure has been very low in the Highland, N. Union, East Maple, E. State and the upper portions of Southeast Blvd. areas because these sections are located on the highest land elevations in the city.

Water pressure, he added, has always been a problem in these sections.

Military Plans Call for Cuts In Manpower

WASHINGTON (AP) — Current military planning calls for further manpower cuts to offset the rising cost of weapons.

Secretary of Defense Wilson told his news conference Thursday a force of 2½ million men, 300,000 below the present level, is a possibility by July 1959. He called that a minimum planning figure. But he said limited drafting of men will have to be continued to maintain a force of that size.

Wilson, resigning the post he has held for 4½ years, will be succeeded in October by Neil H. McElroy, Procter & Gamble Co. president whose nomination was approved Thursday by the Senate Armed Services Committee. Senate confirmation is expected next week.

Wilson has already ordered the services to trim 100,000 military manpower by the end of this calendar year. He also has ordered cuts in the civilian payroll of the armed services and taken other actions to slow spending.

But he said the economy campaign as it affects new missiles, aircraft and weapons has been carried about as far as it can go for the time being.

He stressed his belief that continued manpower cuts can be made without substantially weakening national defense.

He said U.S. fighting units in Europe will be maintained, although there is still room to reduce the number of men overseas.

Gordon Defends GM Plane Profit

Says Sum Reasonable, Below Business Rate

WASHINGTON (AP)—John F. Gordon, vice president of General Motors Corp., said today his company's profit on an Air Force contract for 599 jet fighters was reasonable and below its profit rate on commercial business.

In testimony prepared for a House Armed Services subcommittee, Gordon said GM's profit on a contract for 599 F84F jet Thunderstreak fighters was 11.3 per cent on sales before income taxes and 5.4 per cent after taxes.

Gordon's testimony came a day after Rep. Hardy (D-Va.) remarked at a subcommittee hearing that it looked to him as if there had been "deliberate padding" on the contract by some GM personnel. Rep. Gavin (R-Pa.) said it would appear the responsibility rests with the Air Force.

The planes were produced by GM's Buick-Oldsmobile-Pontiac division plant in Kansas City, Kan. Most of them were delivered in 1955.

Gordon said that through negotiation between the Air Force and the GM division and "through good performance in reducing costs" the total contract value for the planes was reduced by $26,569,736 from the $370,529,235 contemplated in the July, 1954, GM proposal.

In a recent letter to the subcommittee, Comptroller General Joseph Campbell said an audit had shown "that the contractors realized a profit of $17,459,200 in excess of the profit contemplated."

Gordon said GM did not contemplate any specific profit. In a fixed price contract such as this one, Gordon said, the contractor contemplates not a specific profit but rather such profit as he is able to earn through efficient operations.

Sen. Knowland, President Have Strategy Talk

Knowland Doubts if Senate Will Restore All of House Cuts

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.) held a last-minute strategy session with President Eisenhower today and reported later they both hope to get back in the Senate a substantial part of the $809,650,000 the House chopped out of foreign aid funds.

The President and the Senate Republican leader held an hour-long breakfast conference at the White House. It followed by only a few hours the House action on the mutual security appropriation bill.

Knowland told reporters he doubts the Senate will be able to restore the entire sum the House knocked out but said he and Eisenhower are hopeful the Senate will restore "a substantial part of the reductions made by the House."

As passed by the House the measure provides $2,524,700,000 in new money. Eisenhower had sought the full amount of a previously passed authorization measure—$3,367,000,000.

The cut of more than 800 million is a net figure taking account of some permanent authorizations needing no new law, and some switching of carryovers from previous appropriations.

Even the authorization figure is half a billion below what Eisenhower originally sought.

The senator said there was no discussion today of Eisenhower's calling a special session of Congress in the fall, as he has said he may do if the foreign aid funds voted at this time are inadequate.

Knowland said he thought the calling of a special session would depend on world conditions at the time—that is, that the President might find it possible to get along with existing foreign aid funds until Congress reassembles in January.

Knowland said he thinks there is "a fair chance" Congress can wind up the present session at the end of next week.

In the teeth of a third Eisenhower warning that the cuts would

Cuts in Defense Funds, Plans Observed in Western Nations

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Disarmament is still a dream today for all the talking at the London conference.

But little by little the Western nations are cutting back on their defense planning and spending without any formal agreement.

A number of U.S. corporations and industries are feeling it. And a number of U.S. cities are worrying about the trend, especially in the Southwest and along the entire West Coast where the biggest local payroll is that of a defense plant.

The stock market has taken due note each time a company has lost a military contract or is threatened with a cutback in government buying of its products.

In Europe the need for governmental economy and the problem of shaky currencies has caused trimming of defense programs.

In the United States the economy drive is complicated just now by the squirming of the U.S. Treasury under the present limit on the federal debt.

It will be bumping the 275 billion dollar debt ceiling before the next big flow of tax receipts in January and March and April.

And it would be politically embarrassing for the administration to ask Congress once again to lift that ceiling temporarily and give the Treasury more space in which to stretch comfortably.

So the administration is cutting back on military spending in some places, putting it off in others, and trying every trick it knows to hold off until next year as many as possible of the Pentagon outlays.

Item: The navy is putting 61 ships in moth balls. It is laying off 18,000 civilians come halloween.

Item: The Air Force is ending some missile programs and stretching out some aircraft orders—worrying not only the aircraft industry but its suppliers such as electronics firms, and even the oil industry which sees less demand ahead for aviation fuel and for naval fuel.

Item: The Army is whittling its manpower a little—a matter of interest to many concerns, whether they make uniforms or process food.

Item: Spending for the government stockpile of strategic materials is being cut. This has been a mainstay of the lead and zinc producers and they fear this drop may be withdrawn altogether in coming months. The stockpile affects many other industries. For example: The industrial diamond industry is protesting that government buying stopped without due warning.

As the cold war enters what seems to be a milder phase, businessmen are beginning to take the possibility into account in their planning.

News of Meetings, Helpful Hints For Farmers

1957 Lamb Crop Report

The lamb crop for Ohio is indicated at 829,000 head for this season, according to the Ohio Crop Reporting Service. This compares with 849,000 lambs raised in 1956 and the 1946-55 ten year average of 768,000 head.

Lambs raised per 100 breeding ewes on hand January 1 totaled 101, or 2 less than last year but 5 more than the 1946-55 average. Breeding ewes on Ohio farms January 1, 1957 numbered 821,000 head the same as one year earlier.

The 1957 lamb crop in the United States totaled 19,800,000 head, 3 per cent less than in 1956. This year's lamb crop is the smallest since 1953 and is about equal to the 1946-55 average. Drought-forced liquidation of breeding flocks was primarily responsible for the 5 per cent smaller lamb crop in the 13 western states.

The production of wool in Ohio this season is estimated to be 8,996,000 pounds. This compares with 9,013,000 pounds sheared a year earlier. The number of sheep shorn at 1,046,000 head was 1 per cent more than a year ago. However, the average fleece weight at 8.6 pounds was one tenth of a pound less than in 1956, making the total production of wool just under the production of a year ago.

The average price received by Ohio producers for wool rose to 55 cents per pound in May 1957 and has stayed at that level for the past two months. As shown in the table below wool prices over the past year and a half have shown a fairly steady increase in price since the low of 40 cents per pound in January 1956.

Pomona Grangers To Meet Saturday

The "traveling light" will be returned to Pomona Grange when it meets at Clarkson Saturday night by Lisbon Grange, which received it from Pleasant Valley Grange at their last meeting.

The Pomona Grange started the "traveling light" last fall and it has been to, all granges in the county, being returned to the grange that started it first last fall.

A county grange candy contest will be held, winners in each grange competing for county honors Saturday night.

A good turnout is expected for this meeting.

San Francisco, reports the American Iron and Steel Institute, is the only port in the United States which can handle the largest tankers now in service because controlling depth in most big ports and the Suez Canal is 35 feet. Most big tankers, when loaded, require more than 49 feet of water depth.

Alger Hiss Works For Comb Company

NEW YORK (AP)—Alger Hiss is working as $12,000-a-year administrative assistant to the president of a New York City firm which manufactures women's combs.

Hiss is an aide to R. Andrew Smith, president of Feathercombs Inc.

Smith said Hiss has made himself "quite indispensable" in the three months since he joined the firm.

Smith said he had heard Hiss was in need of a job and offered him a "clerical" post which was accepted at $100 a week. Hiss was so "tremendously successful" at solving office problems and improving procedures that he was promoted rapidly, Smith said.

The firm has about 1,000 employees—150 in New York and others in Germany and Japan.

Hiss was released from a federal penitentiary in November 1954, after serving three years and eight months of a five-year sentence for perjury. He was convicted of denying falsely before a U.S. grand jury that he passed on State Department secrets to Whittaker Chambers, onetime courier for a Russian spy ring.

Murder Count Filed But Body Missing

LIMA, Ohio (AP)—Ralph Forsythe, 42, of Lima has been charged with first degree murder for the alleged slaying of Charles Conner, 37, although police admit they don't know what has become of Conner's body.

Police Chief Donald F. Miller says his investigation has led him to conclude that Conner, a foreman for a Lima paint company, was shot in the kitchen of the Forsythe home about 9 p.m. Saturday. "We know the method and means by which the body was taken out of the home but from there on we are in the dark," Chief of Detectives A. H. Grady said.

Neither Grady nor Miller would discuss details of the alleged crime. Police said they have two witnesses to the shooting but withheld their names.

Forsythe's wife June, who was held for questioning along with her husband, has been released from custody. Charges against Forsythe were filed Thursday.

Cigars Scare Women

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—one of the odd facts about those odd creatures known as women is that they are secretly afraid of cigars.

They may deny it, but it's so. Ask the average woman who says she hates cigars what her objections to them are, and she'll reply:

"Oh, they smell terrible and they make the men who smoke them look simply repulsive."

Then, assuming an air of balanced feminine tolerance (which is about as unbalanced as a human being can get), she'll add:

"Now, I don't mind cigarettes, and it's a pleasure to a woman to see the fun a man gets out of a pipe. But cigars...ugh! They're nasty. I don't see why any man wants to smoke them."

And what is the real truth? The real truth is the lady is a liar. The real truth is that she doesn't hate cigars because they are messy or smell up the house—but because she is afraid of them.

And why? Because a little old cigar is a potential rival...because, in this woman-dominated world, it is a subtle weapon by which a man can seek to regain his equal rights...because it can give a man something a woman often can't—a feeling of sere power.

"A good cigar," wrote E. G. Bulwer-Lytton, "is as great a comfort to a man as a good cry to a woman."

Summing up the situation even better in one of the most terribly accurate lines in English literature, Rudyard Kipling said:

"A woman is only a woman, but a good cigar is a smoke."

Consciously or unconsciously, most women realize these things are true. And naturally a woman secretly hates and fears the cigar that can give such a solace to her mortal prey, man. If the critter is going to get any solace in this dubious world, she believes she ought to provide it—not a cigar.

Woman has no such animosity toward the cigarette or pipe, because she has found from experience it is no trouble to dominate the kind of men addicted to them. Your male cigarette smoker is quite likely to be nervous and fearful, and anxious for feminine protection. Your pipe smoker is often a dullard, a victim of his own fumes and easily led.

But put a stout cigar in the mouth of even the most mouse-like man and he stands a head higher, and grows taller with every puff. His dreams become bigger, too. His cigar is a cloud-spreading sword of freedom. It is his inspiration, his consolation. He becomes a Napoleon...perhaps a bush-league Napoleon, only a few moments away from Waterloo...but nevertheless a Napoleon.

He can stand on his own two feet. He has no need to lean on woman or woman's advice—at least not until the cigar goes out.

Says Life May Exist Elsewhere in Universe

LAS CRUCES, N.M. (AP)—The man who discovered the planet Pluto says many astronomers agree, purely on the basis of the laws of chance, that life may exist elsewhere in the universe. Clyde Tombaugh, a member of the staff of New Mexico A&M College, said in an interview that our planet is one of several revolving about one of billions of suns. "It is sheerest egotism," he said, "for man to believe that the universe was created for his special benefit, or even for life, at all."

Infantry Group Loses List of Ex-Members

NEW YORK —The 83rd Infantry Division Assn. desperately needs a "Who's Who" of its members.

It doesn't know who most of them are.

The division, which de-activated after World War II and is now an Ohio National Guard unit, had 30,000 to 35,000 men during the war.

But a roster of their names got "lost, strayed or stolen" during the association's 1951 gathering in Boston.

"Since then we've been doing everything we can think of to get all the names again but so far we've got only about 1,300 or 1,400," said Harry W. Lockwood, association vice president from Jersey City, N. J.

Lockwood told newsmen at the group's annual reunion which opened here Thursday that the Defense Department said it would take too much time and manpower to comb military records for the names.

He said the effort to get the names has been limited so far to word of mouth, letters and appeals in the group's journal, the "Thunderbolt."

Lockwood asked all those formerly serving in the division to send their names to the association's headquarters at 1459 Beechwood St., NE, Warren, Ohio.

Part of the Job

President Eisenhower planted a haymaker on his critics by noting the abuse heaped on George Washington by the critics of that distant day in politics.

Part of the job of being president of the United States is to learn how to be philosophical about criticism. It is to Mr. Eisenhower's credit that he has realized this and acknowledged it publicly. It may have the effect of moderating some of the things being said about Mr. Eisenhower by his critics.

Their purpose, it must be remembered, is to smear him out of the political prestige that has made him the strongest vote-getter in the nation in two national elections.

Their method, it must be remembered, is as cool and calculating as the smear campaign that reduced Herbert Hoover to political impotency.

Not only are Democrats engaged in this campaign to whittle down Mr. Eisenhower's stature, but hidden, furtive opposition in his own party equally determined to wing him before the next national campaign in 1960.

This pattern of political ruthlessness was laid down, as Mr. Eisenhower has noted, in George Washington's day. Tom Paine once accused the first president of treachery and said he was either an apostate or an impostor.

When Abraham Lincoln was in the White House, he was accustomed to hearing himself described as an ape, an imbecile, a dictator and a butcher.

Horace Greeley, the vitriolic Republican editor, spluttered for new and nastier words to describe Lincoln's incompetency. Perhaps the hardest thing Lincoln had to bear was ridicule based on his appearance, his gentle manner and his fondness for jokes.

But he showed no pain or annoyance. He forgave his critics as he forgave his enemies. . . "with malice toward none; with charity for all."

The political pygmies who hacked at him savagely to make him seem as small as they were finally found themselves buried without trace in the rubble of history—and Abraham Lincoln stood taller than ever.

We think Dwight Eisenhower would be first to disclaim that his stature can be compared with that of Washington and Lincoln, though neither man while living attained the stature Mr. Eisenhower has attained in his lifetime. But the comparison between what his political opponents and carping critics are doing to him with what was done to Washington suggests that the surest way to be marked as a pygmy is to tack at the legs of a giant and be buried in the rubble.

It Finally Happened

It was only a matter of time until a baseball manager or a football coach beat the grandstand managers and front-office head-hunters to the draw in the annual head-rolling derby.

Raymond J. (Buddy) Parker has turned the tables by resigning as coach of the Detroit Lions before the season began. This is comparable to the shock that would be felt if Walter Alston had turned in his knickerbockers and spiked shoes a few hours before opening day for the Dodgers last spring.

But for all of us who find in sports the basic patterns of behavior in the United States, there is no mystery about it. Parker ditched it before it had a chance to ditch him; that's all.

There have been plays that never opened on Broadway because their backers got cold feet. There have been books that never were published, art masterpieces that were slashed and burned, recitals that never came off and speeches that were never made, because the authors, painters, musicians and orators decided to be ditchers instead of ditchees.

Now that a football coach has dumped the owners before the owners could dump him for failure to accomplish the impossible, may be a fad for this sort of thing. It would be turnabout and fair play. Heads would roll in all directions.

First Batch

Three things remain to be learned about the Asian flu vaccine released this week by U. S. Public Health Service:

1. Whether or not it will be effective against the virus in the form it will have taken by the beginning of flu season in the early winter. The nightmare of the drug companies and researchers is mutation of the flu virus, causing them to develop new vaccines to combat it in its changing forms.

2. Whether or not the vaccine will have been distributed widely enough by early winter to guarantee widespread immunity in the event an epidemic of Asian flu develops.

3. Whether or not the public, which has learned to regard flu without undue alarm, can be moved by the threat of a new kind of flu to do something about it in advance.

Asian flu could be one of those things everybody talks about and nobody does anything about.

U. S. Security Damage

Recent Court Decisions Hinder Law Enforcement

Somewhere the several justices of the Supreme Court of the United States are on vacation but it is hoped that they have time to read the new papers and learn of the damage that has been done to the security of the United States by some of the decisions recently rendered by a majority of the court. Justice Tom Clark, himself a former attorney general, can take satisfaction from the fact that he vigorously dissented and predicted the injury that would follow.

For the director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, J. Edgar Hoover — the man primarily responsible for the conduct of the investigative process of the federal government — cries out against what is happening as a result of the court's ruling that FBI confidential files can be exposed in the court room to Communists.

THIS IS HELPING them in their efforts to outmaneuver and outwit the United States government and to serve the cause of the enemy.

"Since the Jencks decision," writes the head of the FBI to the minority leader of the House of Representatives, Joseph W. Martin, "we have, faced one obstacle after another. We have experienced instance after instance where sources of information have been closed to our agents because of the fear that the confidence we could once guarantee could no longer be assured."

"We have also experienced a reluctance on the part of numerous citizens to co-operate as freely as they once did."

"The fact that prior to June 3, 1957, (date of the Jencks decision) informed people knew that our files were inviolate has been a powerful factor in our ability to secure information."

The Supreme Court could have ruled that a judge had discretion as to whether any material taken from the files should be placed in the record and the decision could have pointed to ways to preserve the FBI's confidences within existing law.

BUT WHILE the Supreme Court has been conscientiously protecting Communists and Communist sympathizers by upholding their right to conceal their activities from inquiring government agencies and Congressional committees, no such protection was given the FBI itself.

Nor is this the only havoc wrought by the Supreme Court in recent decisions. Thus, police officers throughout the country are concerned because of the decision in the Mallory case, which says that a suspect has to be "formally arraigned" before he can be questioned. A confessed rapist had to be released because of this decision. Rep. Kenneth Keating of New York, ranking Republican on the House Judiciary Committee, said a few days ago that, as a consequence of such rulings, the efforts of police officers to solve federal crimes are being "shackled."

Washington's police chief, Robert V. Murray, said the Mallory decision would "cause a substantial rise in crime and a drastic reduction in the solution of major criminal cases in the nation's capital."

CONGRESS in general is disturbed by what the Supreme Court has done but, because of the entanglements of the "civil rights" situation and the delays to other major bills, the way to remedial legislation to offset recent decisions of the Supreme Court has been temporarily blocked.

Significant, however, is the fact that the internal security subcommittee of the Senate Judiciary Committee has reported out a bill to curb the "appellate jurisdiction" of the Supreme Court.

This is the first time since 1937 that any legislative step affecting the operation of the high court has gone that far, though in recent months a variety of restrictive bills have been introduced.

The proposed law—which is in accord with the powers granted to Congress over the courts by the Constitution — would specifically provide that the Supreme Court shall have no jurisdiction to review any case which involves the validity of the jurisdiction of congressional committees or actions of witnesses before such committees.

It would also limit the court's right to deal with cases involving subversion against either the states or the federal government.

THIS IS but part of a growing movement to make the Supreme Court aware of the facts of the Communist menace, which so often a majority of the justices tend to pooh-pooh or relegate to oblivion as if it was just an outcropping of foolish zeal on the part of a few harmless and misguided people.

Lately, as Soviet spies have been arrested and counterespies have told their story, it would seem that not only is the "cold war" still going on but it apparently is being fought more intensely than ever on the battlefield inside America under the newly acquired protection of the Supreme Court's decisions.

A witness before the Senate internal security subcommittee who knows what's happening inside the Communist party has just testified that the Supreme Court's decisions have elated the Communists and stimulated them in their efforts to press their subversion and their espionage inside the United States.

Barbs
Three's company and two is too often an argument.
A popular person is one who enjoys being bored.
Lots of stenographers halt dictation because they're spellbound.

What constitutes a good neighbor?
A good many of the 150,000 residents of Tacoma would put a prison — McNeil Island Federal Penitentiary — in that category.

Three miles by boat from Steilacoom, a Tacoma suburb, the prison houses some 1,200 West Coast bank robbers, counterfeiters, dope peddlers and other federal law violators.

A typewritten list of their crimes would circle the island, but put the violators all together and they do some rather wonderful things.

Out of their slim prison wages (15 to 20 cents an hour, much of which is sent home) the McNeil inmates:

1. Support a French war orphan.

2. Sponsor and outfit a team in Tacoma's "Pee Wee" Boys' Baseball league.

3. Provide Christmas presents for all the children in a Tacoma orphanage and in the county's juvenile detention home.

4. Contribute generously to charity drives, such as the March of Dimes and the local United Good Neighbor Campaign.

And there are things that money can't buy.

The island is the greatest single contributor to the Tacoma-Pierce County Blood Bank — some inmates have to be watched closely to make certain they don't give blood more often than they should.

Some 120 inmates took part in recent medical experiments to determine the cause of hepatitis — yellow jaundice. Two died.

Why the generosity of men who have been put behind bars by society?

"My own opinion," says McNeil Warden David M. Heritage, "is that there are a variety of reasons. In a limited number of cases where men volunteer as guinea pigs in risky medical experiments I think there is a certain amount of expiation."

"Men in prison also seem to contribute most freely to programs benefitting children, probably unconsciously thinking of their own children or having in mind some lack of affection in their own childhood."

"But the prime underlying reason, I believe, is their desire to be

Presidential Candidates

By RAYMOND MOLEY

This is a piece that has to do with the question so many people are asking these days: Who are likely to be the candidates for president in 1960? My answer now, as it has been in previous years, is "Come back and ask that one after the mid-term election of 1958. You can't tell yet."

This doesn't prevent George Gallup from taking a poll. In fact, nothing seems to stand in the way of a Gallup poll. A new one is on the question: "Which one would you like to see nominated as the Democratic candidate for president in 1960?"

His people first asked Democrats this question, and the top favorites were Kefauver and Kennedy, with 25 and 24 per cent respectively.

Then the pollsters asked so-called "independents" the question. Their answer was about the same — Kefauver and Kennedy.

This is an odd thing about Gallup's polls. Democrats and "independents" act alike and think alike. Which, I suggest, shows how independent the Gallup "independents" really are.

Last year, Gallup polled Republicans, Democrats, and "independents" about whether they believed that President Eisenhower would have another attack of ileitis.

Pretty silly in any event, since the matter is something about which only doctors with a great deal of knowledge of the surgical history of many cases could reasonably venture an opinion.

At any rate, Republicans didn't think ileitis would return but Democrats and independents thought it would return.

But why should "independents" vote like Democrats? Is it because so many Democrats don't like to admit that they are Democrats?

That question I shall leave to Gallup, and return to the original one: "Who in 1960?"

In a situation like this — in which the President cannot succeed himself and the last Democratic candidate is hopelessly out of it — history tells us that the question cannot be answered intelligently three years before a Presidential election.

Let us run back a bit and see. In 1949 Taff was sometimes mentioned in connection with 1952, and Dewey was mentioned in 1941 and 1945 in connection with 1944 and 1948. And some people were talking about Gen. Eisenhower in 1949. Roosevelt was, of course, in the office in 1941 and 1937. And nobody in his right mind believed he would not run, if alive.

But run back some more years. Who would have thought of Willie in 1937? Or Landon in 1933? Landon was thrust into view by his re-election as governor in 1934.

Roosevelt came into the picture only after his smashing re-election as governor of New York in 1930. Hoover is an exception. He was running, well before 1926. But what of John W. Davis in 1921, or Harding and Cox in 1917, or Hughes in 1913, or Wilson in 1909?

Bryan was a perennial after 1896 but who had heard of him in 1893? Where was Alton B. Parker in 1901? A judge known only in New York.

Probably both McKinley and Mark Hanna had ideas about 1896 as far back as when the former was elected governor of Ohio in 1891. But it was his re-election in 1893 that brought his name to the country.

I have little information about Benjamin Harrison in 1886 but clearly Grover Cleveland, mayor of Buffalo, was not a speculative choice in 1881.

Garfield was a chance shot in a deadlocked convention, and probably you have never heard of Winfield Scott Hancock.

True, Rutherford B. Hayes had been elected governor of Ohio in 1867 and 1869. But he was only a defeated candidate for Congress in 1873.

His re-election as governor in 1875 made him a probable candidate. But what of Abraham Lincoln exactly 100 years ago?

In short, most presidential candidates are made by or after the mid-term elections. So let's think about something important, such as whether we are all going to vote in 1958.

The trouble with Americans is that they find it easier to speculate than vote.

All's Well

By TRUMAN TWILL

It occurs to me it has been a long time since the things I rely on to help me to live an orderly life have disappointed me.

In the next thought, it occurs to me it is a privilege to be able to say this. Maybe I should be publicly thankful for:

An automobile that pops off faithfully each morning and night and conked out only once in all the years it has been lugging me around;

A typewriter that never fights back, grows stubborn, or resorts to unfair practices in the clinches, when anything goes;

An alarm clock that grinds out the time week in and week out, never speeding up or slowing down, never stopping suddenly and never raising its voice unduly in the cold, gray dawn;

A telephone system that unfailingly gets the right number, provided the right number has been dialed;

A rural water system that rises to the occasion 9,999,999 times out of a million and needs nothing more serious than routine repairs the other time;

A tractor that has chugged for hundreds of hours through all kinds of unreasonable tasks in all kinds of water and never failed;

A water heater that has taken the deep-well chill off millions of gallons of water and delivered it piping hot to shower heads and water taps;

An ancient toaster that has been taking the tender soggiest out of all kinds of bread at breakfast for upward of 25 years, with only two interruptions for repairs to damaged parts, broken when the thing fell to the floor;

A coal furnace that one day soon will be stoked anew and will crackle and sigh for another eight months without missing a BTU or blowing its top;

An electrical setup which performs so unfalteringly that when it fails one remembers with difficulty the era in which failure was the rule instead of the exception;

A television set that has been lighting up and doing its job uncomplainingly since Dagmar was very big on gawk boxes;

A type of cheap, disposable ball-point pen that always writes on contact, never needs to be fussed with and takes away from the writing racket the time-wasting excuse of running back and forth to the pencil sharpener;

A couple of wet-cell batteries that seem to last forever, if given some water occasionally;

A couple of dry-cell batteries that do likewise without needing water;

An outdoor floodlight that should have darked out years ago but is still turning darkness into daylight with the flip of a switch;

A dry-cleaning service whose employees do what they promise to do and know how to press the sleeves of a coat so they look like sleeves, instead of iron cuffs;

Traffic lights that work, also windshield wipers, signals at railroad crossings, shirts with collars that hold their shape; shoelaces which do not fray out, socks that do not fade, mail service that does not fail . . .

For all these things and a thousand more I am publicly thankful. Everything may fly to pieces tomorrow but as of today there are no complaints.

So They Say

I wasn't scared until it (85-mile-an-hour ride in brakeless truck down mountain highway) was over. — Glenn Switzer, Fairmount, Neb., on ride near Uniontown, Pa.

In my book, he (Middleweight Champion Ray Robinson) is greedy, arrogant, and I despise him. I can't wait to get in the ring with him. — Welterweight Champion Carmen Basilio, on upcoming fight with Robinson.

When he (President Eisenhower) says that the (school construction) bill's defeat was not his fault, he's just a lousy liar. — Rep. Cleveland M. Bailey (D-W. Va.).

It seems that some of our teenagers have gone wild. — Evangelist Billy Graham.

This was one of the saddest days in the Senate because this was a vote (putting jury trial into civil rights bill) against the right to vote. — Vice President Nixon.

Increasing conflicts have beset my marriage over the past several years. — Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney, on plans to divorce third wife and marry actress.

I knew she (his wife) was out for blood, so I stepped on the gas. — Robert D. Smallfield, 42, of Los Angeles, who says she used her car to duel with him in fit of jealousy.

I just had a couple of glasses of champagne with a doctor who is treating my mother. I'm really a good girl. — Starlet Gia Scala, denying she was drunk when her car hit house in Hollywood.

Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

The Litterbug Carries On

Litterbugs, the folks who toss paper plates, paper cups, candy wrappings, popcorn boxes and other junk onto the highways and city streets with a "heigh nonny nonny and a hot who cares?" costs the taxpayers of America millions of dollars a year, a report shows.

In New York State alone the taxpayers are set back 1½ million dollars per annum through the cost of cleaning up the mess. Few states don't suffer proportionately.

This is the age of the Refuse Tosser and the Litter Hurler, with the public apparently putting on a nationwide demonstration in general sloppiness.

MR. AND MRS. LITTERBUG and the Litterbug moppets are capable of driving through the most beautiful areas on the finest of highways and treating them both like public dumps. It is commonplace to see mommer and popper setting an example for the kids by throwing the hot-dog plates and paper napkins out of the auto window, even while passing those big signs "WARNING. FIFTY DOLLAR FINE FOR LITTERING THIS ROAD."

THERE WAS A TIME when most Americans were neat, appreciative of clean streets and respectful of community appearance. They would use a trash can if near and, if not, they could hang onto the wastepaper until they came to one. They were offended by dirt.

But today the careless, defacer of the countryside and city streets has taken over. The automobile has been a contributing factor, since it carries millions who want the car clean but don't care about the highway.

Parents, teachers, civic organizations, public officials, cops and courts must also share in the blame.

Junior gets no whacking if he litters the schoolyard or the public playground.

Every community knows the grownup who, when his home garbage can is overloaded, puts a load of refuse in a paper bag or carton, gets into his car and dumps the stuff on somebody's property.

MOST EVERY COMMUNITY has laws against littering, but there are few arrests. And in too many cases when a cop takes action, the court, tosses the case out as if it were another paper cup.

But in our book the blame is largely up to government officials who walk through the paths of their own Town Halls without noticing a load of litter and who can make a speech in a village green knee-high in wastepaper, discarded boxes, sandwich wrappings and general garbage.

Too many town officials still think trash cans are experimental. And we once saw the chairman of a clean-up week committee denouncing litterbugs from the steps of a city hall, with one foot in an overturned trash can.

WASHINGTON TELLS of the fellow who said, "Lots of Gluck, Mr. Luck."

We know a fellow who just got a souvenir postal from California showing a view of San Quentin, with the words "Wish you were here."

Our idea of high courage is calling a dentist and asking him to confirm an appointment. If Neil H. McElroy, the new secretary of defense, hadn't wanted the job he could have told Ike "No soap."

Shoe prices will go higher, manufacturers say we'll have to take in our old pair for a trade-in. Maybe the heels and soles will be listed as "extras."

Guarding Your Health

By Dr. EDWIN P. JORDAN

Bronchiectasis

A severe, long-lasting cough, no matter what is responsible, may lead to a serious condition of the lungs called bronchiectasis.

Irritation of the breathing tubes such as a bronchitis, a severe asthma, or even a chronic sinus infection associated with coughing may bring about this disorder.

Small pockets in the lungs known technically as alveoli are normally filled with air when a person breathes. In bronchiectasis they are broken down, dilated and packed with mucus, fluid, or pus. The involved areas of the lungs look much like a bunch of grapes.

In bronchiectasis, a coughing spell usually brings up a heavy mucus sputum, often having a foul odor. However, accurate diagnosis requires special examinations, including X-ray pictures.

A remarkable instrument called a bronchoscope, by which the dilated pockets can be seen by the physician, may also be used.

The first step in treatment is to identify the cause of the cough. When this is done the appropriate treatment should, of course, be begun.

Until recently, treatment of bronchiectasis was unsatisfactory. Now, however, good results in early cases have been obtained by the use of penicillin given by injection or inhalation.

The other satisfactory treatment, even in advanced cases, is surgery. The affected part of the lung can be removed pretty successfully and this has undoubtedly saved many lives.

In this connection, M.D. has written that about 11 years ago she had an operation on her left lung for bronchiectasis. At the time she was told she had some bronchiectasis on the right lung and now for several months she has had pain on that side and several months ago had a bad hemorrhage.

Something of this sort presents a difficult problem to the physician in charge. The question is whether she can be treated medically or whether surgery of the right lung is now necessary.

In view of the fact that she has had hemorrhage the one thing that is certain is that she cannot forget about the matter. Thorough study of her condition and the amount of remaining lung tissue will be necessary before a good decision can be reached.

In conclusion, I should like to warn everyone against ignoring a long-continued cough, regardless of its cause. Every effort should be made to cure the condition causing the cough before it has gone on long enough to produce bronchiectasis. Bronchiectasis is better prevented than treated.

Probers to Quiz Ex-Union Leader

Will Question Lacey About Losing Top Job

WASHINGTON (AP)—Big, gravel-voiced Martin T. Lacey returns for more questioning today on how hoodlums, allegedly cooperating with James R. Hoffa, helped him to win New York City's Teamsters boss.

The Senate Racket Committee charges Lacey was shoved out in a 1956 election it says was rigged to put in John J. O'Rourke as president of Teamsters Joint Council 16. O'Rourke was backed by Hoffa, Midwest head of the Teamsters Union. Hoffa is expected to succeed Teamsters President Dave Beck as head of the nation's biggest union.

O'Rourke, in the witness chair Thursday, invoked the Fifth Amendment time and again in refusing to tell how he became president of the council. He also refused to say whether he knows Hoffa or labor racketeer Johnny Dipo.

The committee contends Hoffa was allied with Dio in ousting Lacey through the device of phony Teamster locals that allegedly threw their voting weight to O'Rourke.

Hoffa's objective, the committee says, was to extend his already big labor power and that Dio's aim was to fatten his income from labor rackets.

Lacey, who has been with the trucking union more than half a century, denied to newsmen suggestions made in the hearings that he was approached with a $40,000 bribe to withdraw in O'Rourke's favor.

"No such offer was ever made," the 74-year-old Lacey told reporters in advance of his second appearance before the committee.

But one of several secretly recorded telephone conversations between New York racketeers Tony (Ducks) Corallo, Dio and Sam Goldstein seemed to speak of discussing such an offer with Lacey. That was the interpretation put on the recording by investigating senators after they heard it played at the hearing.

Another wiretapped phone conversation between the hoodlums told how Lacey wept "like a babe in the woods" in protesting, "If they would come and hit me with bats that would be all right. But not the way they done it to me."

Goldstein was quoted as telling Corallo that Lacey "would have listened to anything a couple of months ago—sit down and talk it over."

But at that point, Corallo was told, "the way they done things—if it was you and you was a whipped dog, . . . you'd get up and you'd fight. . . ." This was taken to mean Lacey wasn't knuckling under.

Lacey said the first time he heard that the new locals were trying to get delegates on the joint council was during the AFL-CIO merger convention in New York in December 1955. He said he was too busy playing host to the convention to pay much attention.

But he said he wrote to Beck complaining he'd been bypassed in establishing the units and asking for the explanation. The letter was never answered, he said.

Senators Up Ike's Flu Fund Request

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Appropriations Committee has increased by $300,000 an Eisenhower administration request for funds to fight Asiatic flu.

The committee did this Thursday in approving a $1,700,000 supplemental money bill. Most of the funds in the bill would go to pay for military construction in the United States and abroad.

President Eisenhower had asked for $500,000 to use against the Asiatic flu which government health officials have said may reach epidemic proportions in the United States this winter.

The committee upped this figure to $800,000 after hearing Surgeon General Leroy E. Burney say under questioning he believed that amount was needed.

The over-all total in the bill is about 200 million dollars greater than the $1,581,000,000 voted by the House. The Senate committee boosted House allotments for military construction projects. It also added funds for small business loans and several lesser items.

Ike

tampers with America's national interests, the House overrode all moves to boost funds in the committee-approved bill. The vote for final passage was 252-130.

Eisenhower supporters got a glimmer of hope from Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn.), who announced he believes the House cut too deeply. Humphrey said the new appropriations should not fall below three billion dollars.

But the measure still faced scrutiny by a Senate Appropriations Committee with a reputation for toughness on foreign aid. Chairman Hayden (D-Ariz.) said that committee would hold a final hearing on the bill Monday and start voting soon thereafter.

Even if the Senate voted for the full $3,367,000,000 allowed by the authorization law setting aid ceilings for the coming year, Eisenhower will get far less than the $3,800,000,000 he originally said was needed to bolster free world strength.

Republicans made half a dozen attempts on the House floor Thursday to preserve portions of the 809 millions slashed by the House Appropriations Committee. But they didn't even come close.

On the 252-130 final roll call, 144 Democrats and 108 Republicans voted for passage while 70 Democrats and 60 Republicans voted against.

A semiformal move by Rep. Judd (R-Minn.) to put 715 million dollars back into the bill was beaten 254-129. There were 171 Democrats against this recommission motion and only 43 for it. The Republicans were split almost evenly, 86 for and 83 against.

Rep. Taber (NY), who has been called "Meat-ax" in past days of money-cutting as senior Republican on the Appropriations Committee, played an unusual role of pushing for hundreds of millions of dollars in increases.

Rep. Flood (D-Pa.) in turn asked his Democratic colleagues if they were stepping into the same pitfalls he said they had accused the Republicans of in voting foreign aid cuts during a Democratic administration.

Rep. Passman (D-La.) and others, including a number of Republicans, shot back that the 2½ billion dollars was enough to continue the program safely. Passman stuck to his oft-expressed view that the aid program is a "Frankenstein-like monstrosity . . . a pie-in-the-sky."

Water

zens in that area indicate an increase in water pressure.

THE WATER DEPARTMENT plans eventually to circle the entire city of Salem with a 10 and 12-inch feeder main.

In the southeast section a 10-inch main has been installed starting at Franklin Ave. and running up Southeast Blvd. to S. Madison and Maple St. This line will continue north to connect with the E. State St. main near the N. Madison line.

On the north side of town, a 12-inch main has been laid from the Highland Ave. standpipe north to E. 11th St. It then goes west on 11th St. to Sunset Blvd. and west on Sunset to near Memorial Park.

Water mains are presently on the ground to extend the 12-inch main to E. 12th St. This eventually will continue west to connect with the N. Ellsworth line.

THE UTILITIES superintendent said that Salem consumers have used 13½ million gallons more water this year than during the same period in 1956. The city has storage facilities for 3,812,000 gallons.

During the days when pressure was low, water department charts showed that only a total of 2,665,000 gallons of water were on hand at 7 a.m. daily. At the present time, the capacity has been raised to 3,503,000 gallons.

Airman Court-Martialed For Payroll Swindle

SHAW AIR FORCE BASE, S.C. (AP)—A general court-martial here Thursday convicted Airman 2C John Davis Jr., 22, of Cleveland, Ohio, for his part in a $38,000 payroll swindle.

Davis, the fifth airman to be convicted in the case, received a dishonorable discharge and 4½ years at hard labor with forfeiture of all pay and allowances.

Davis earlier pleaded guilty to nine specifications of larceny by receiving $1,967 in illegal payments from the base finance office.

Four airmen tried earlier were dishonorably discharged and given prison terms.

The courts-martial will continue Tuesday. About 20 airmen and two civilians are charged in the case.

The Air Force said the illegal payments were made to the airmen by some finance office clerks who later received kickbacks.

Woman Seeks Court's Approval of Rezoning

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Mrs. Mary C. McKann, who is seeking to have 136 acres she owns in Richfield Twp. rezoned from residential to commercial use, has filed suit in Common Pleas Court asking that the question be put to a vote of the people in the Nov. 5 election.

Mrs. McKann wants to put an outdoor theater and swimming pool on the property, but the zoning commission has turned down the request to have the property rezoned.

The Ohio Legislature at its last session amended the state zoning law to provide that when the zoning commission reports favorably on a zoning change petition the township trustees may put the proposal to a vote of the people. Mrs. McKann seeks to reverse the procedure in her suit.

HOUSE OF CANNON

WHEN FOLKS around Ambler, Pa., hear noises like thunder, they just nod and say, "Howard Brown must have found another cannon." Brown, a Philadelphia lawyer, has built what he considers to be the first cannon house in America. His collection of cannon and pistols includes 100 spotless field pieces, all of which are in perfect firing condition. Nearly all are brass or bronze. There has only been one accident with his cannon. Two of his sons loaded a salute cannon with too much black powder. A glazier had to install 29 new windows in the Brown home. And you should hear Brown welcome the New Year in!

His collection features artillery and pistols that date back several centuries.

Brown loads one of his twin Dahlgrens. They are howitzers used during Civil war.

Braves Smack Four Homers in Whipping Reds 8-1

CHICAGO (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds have the best fielding in the National League, and are up among the leaders in batting and runs scored.

But the Reds' pitching sometimes gets shelled like an Army artillery range.

The slugging Milwaukee Braves, riding a hot streak, capitalized on this trait Thursday night, banging out a dozen hits—including four homers—in a runaway 8-1 triumph.

That is not the whole story, however. Warren Spahn, 36-year-old lefthander who beats the Reds so often he makes it look easy, held the Rhinelanders in an iron grasp, taking his fifth victory in a row.

The durable southpaw doled out eight hits. The only Redleg marker came in the second inning on two hits and an error.

It was Milwaukee's 10th straight victory and it put them 8½ games out in front of the National League chase. It was also the 14th game in which the Braves have whipped the Reds in 16 games this year.

Don Hoak started off the Reds' scoring rally with a hard double down the left field line. Brave Hank Aaron bobbled a fly hit by Roy McMillan, advancing Hoak to second and Johnny Temple rapped a run-making single.

The Reds put two men on in the first inning and again in the eighth and ninth, but the threats were squelched each time.

Aaron's first home run, in the first inning, gave the Braves a three run lead. His second, in the seventh, accounted for two more runs and hoisted Milwaukee to a 7-1 lead.

After Aaron's first blast, Redleg starter Hal Jeffcoat tried to settle down, but hit a batsman and gave up a single before being replaced.

His successor, Vincente Amor, first of four relievers, promptly loaded the bases and another run was punched across before the rally was halted.

That was the only Brave run that did not come on homers. Ed Mathews blasted his 23rd of the season in the fifth, and Bob Hazle polished off Milwaukee scoring with his second home run this year in the eighth.

Both teams left immediately after the game, Milwaukee for its home port and the Reds for Chicago where a three-game series is scheduled with the Cubs.

Art Fowler is slated to start on the mound for the Reds today, opposing Don Elston.

Motorcycle Club To Hold Race Sunday

A 'scrambles' race will be sponsored Sunday by the Western Reserve Motorcycle Club at their club grounds on the Ellsworth Road.

Riders from Ohio and Pennsylvania will compete in the race which is comparatively new in this locality.

The race course is a half mile in length, consisting of turns, hills, jumps and straightaways. The motorcycles are to be especially tuned and stripped of road equipment. Riders must wear protective helmets and clothing.

Heat races and finals will be run for all sizes of motorcycles. Paul Lipplatt of Salem, a fast-running rider, will be competing in the race. Lipplatt has won three races out of five attempts.

Sunday's race has been sanctioned by the American Motorcycle Association and will comply with all association rules.

Columbiana May Get Second Golf Course

COLUMBIANA — First steps have been taken toward construction of an 18-hole golf course just north of Columbiana along Route 164.

A local venture, it is a project of Arthur (Shorty) Stephens and Galen Lehman, who have completed the purchase of 108½ acres of rolling land located east of Route 164, about a half-mile north of Eureka Rd.

Stephens operates the Sportsman's Club on S. Main.

Valley Golf course is located just west of Columbiana.

'Rags-to-Riches' Team to Enter National Finals

CINCINNATI (AP) — A modest 28-year-old baseball coach will take a rags-to-riches team to Ann Arbor, Mich., next week for the national finals of the Babe Ruth League tournament.

He's a polio victim who has to walk on crutches.

Don Hasselbusch, who was stricken with polio when he was 14 years old, is now bench-sitting team director.

He coaches his Mount Healthy All-Stars from third base, pitches batting practice while sitting flat on the mound and, locking his crutches under his arm, does the hitting for fielding practice.

Funds to finance the team's on the short side. They use borrowed equipment and scarred old tournament trips have been a bit practice baseballs. They barely made it to the state tournament because of lack of funds.

They won that and then didn't have the $1,000 it would take to send them to the regional tournament at Portage, Wis. Radio broadcasts and newspaper stories attracted attention to the plight of the team and organizations and individuals made up the necessary money.

Hasselbusch, who works as a payroll clerk in a valve company plant here, played knothole baseball from the time he was nine years old until he was stricken with polio.

His father, Charles Hasselbusch, who used to coach teams here, related that enroute back from Warm Springs, Ga., he told his son he never could play again but suggested he start helping other kids by coaching.

Football Candidates Receive Physicals

Some 62 football team hopefuls, candidates for Salem High School's 1957 squad, were on hand Thursday to receive physical checkups and football equipment.

Head Coach Earle Bruce, who is starting his second year at the helm of the Quakers, has called the initial practice session for Tuesday morning when he and his squad will embark on a program to improve on last year's record of four victories and five defeats.

Returning when the first practice gets underway will be 14 of 16 lettermen from last season's squad.

Two squad members who will not play this year are Bob Howard and Dick Reichert. Both received injuries in games played last season.

Paul Welch, Ken Garloch, Lani Waiwaloa, Ralph Ehrhart, Jerry Stumpo and Larry Phillips are the only offensive regulars coming back. Ehrhart is the only defensive player to return.

A wide open race for positions is expected to supply plenty of competition at all positions, with a nucleus of sophomores from a freshman team that had a good record last season in there scraping for some of the starting spots.

A pleasant note of interest at Thursday's roll call was that some of the boys had put on some weight during the summer.

Paul Welch tips the scales at 205 pounds and Henry Maxim weighs about 190. These two players are this year's co-captains.

Other members of the squad are also up around that 180 level indicating that the Quakers will be slightly heavier than last year.

Dodgers, Giants Have Until Oct. 31 To Move Franchises

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Brooklyn Dodgers and the New York Giants have 11 more weeks to decide this year whether they'll move to the West Coast as has been rumored. But to minor league baseball officials who concluded a two-day meeting here Thursday the decision can't come soon enough.

"I wish someone would tell us what they're going to do before next year," commented Ed Doherty, president of the American Assn.

The deadline is Oct. 31 for the shifting of a franchise in organized baseball.

The reason for the minor league's impatience about the shifts, if they come, is that invasion of Pacific Coast League territory by the Dodgers and Giants probably will start a chain reaction that will be felt in all the 28 minor leagues.

Doherty said rumors have been flying already about possible shifts of the Minneapolis and St. Paul clubs in the American Assn.

Dick Butler, Texas League prexy, told newsmen that two clubs in his circuit, which he did not identify, want to go to a higher league.

All-Stars Massacre Esquires 112-58

Only one game was played in the city summer basketball league Thursday night and it found the All-Stars massacring the Esquires, 112-58. It was a battle of four-man teams as each club was short one member.

The Grads clinched the summer league title by winning on forfeit over the Gasmen. It was the Grads 11th win in a row.

The All-Stars rushed to a 26-14 first period edge and then stretched it to commanding 56-36 intermission lead. They were in complete command going into the last stanza, 78-42.

Matt Klein topped all scoring efforts by tossing in 20 buckets for 40 points. Teammate Rich Hunter scored 34 while Painchaud had 26 and Harris 10 for the winners.

Dave Fife was high point man for the losing Esquires with 30 markers. Dan Dell and Bob DeCrow had 10 each and Zimmerman 8 for the Esquires.

Baby Vasquez Takes on Rosi In 10-Rounder

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Sixth-ranked Baby Vasquez of Mexico City takes on No. 8 Paoli Rosi in a 10-round nationally televised lightweight fight tonight.

The fight is a rematch of their duel in Miami last December. Vasquez, an amateur bullfighter, won that one with a TKO in the seventh round.

Rosi, 26, has had 32 bouts, with 27 wins, four losses and a draw with 12 knockouts.

Vasquez, 24-year-old father of five children, has a pro record of 29 wins, 12 losses and one draw with 18 knockouts.

Rosi's handlers claim bad luck cost the fighter his New Orleans bout. They contend he had the fight won on the cards of two judges going into the seventh. The third judge marked it a draw.

Vasquez' manager-trainer, Pancho Rosiles, said his fighter is virtually assured of a 12-round bout early next month at Los Angeles with No. 1 ranked Kenny Lane provided he comes through tonight.

NBC radio-TV will broadcast the bout at 9 p.m. (EST).

C.I.O. Collects Third Straight Class E Title

C.I.O. 3816 won the Class E championship for the third year in a row by defeating C.I.O. 2463, 6-3, in a game played at Centennial Park Thursday evening.

Tim Burchfield took over the mound duties for C.I.O. in the first inning two runs in and no outs. He pitched the remainder of the game, only giving up one run.

Buddy Rottenborn was the losing pitcher. The regular season ended in a tie and this was the playoff game. C.I.O. 3816 is managed by Al Catlos, with Darryl Everett and Tom Furlong serving as coaches.

In a Class F contest last night, Fisher's took over first place, edging Eljer 6-4 in a game played at Centennial Park.

Willard Uphold led the way as he pitched his Fisher team to victory. He also was a big gun at bat, smashing a home run and triple.

North-South Game Tonight

18,000 Expected To Witness Battle

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — Ohio puts 50 of its finest football players on display tonight in the 12th annual North-South high school grid game at Fawcett Stadium before a crowd expected to exceed 18,000.

The Rebels, without a victory since 1952 in the annual classic, have been gaining support from the onlookers after being 12-point underdogs early in the week. Hugh Hindman of Columbus North, coach of the Southerners, expressed confidence in his team's ability this morning when he said:

"Hang onto your Confederate money because the Rebels will win this one."

Tom Carey of Youngstown Ursuline, head coach of the Northerners, said he expected the huge Southern forward wall to be almost impenetrable. He hoped his multiple offense might be able to skirt the ends or go overhead to victory.

The 25-player squads are filled with the most talented youngsters who graduated from Ohio's 565 football-playing high schools last June. College coaches from all over the country, recognizing Ohio as a happy hunting ground in their search for football talent, have been here all week attending the clinic sponsored by the Ohio High School Football Assn.

Many of the boys enroll in out-of-state colleges next month.

The Northern offense, although featuring several different systems, is built around the powerful single-wing attack. All four Northern backfield men, in the starting corps were members of the 1956 Associated Press All-Ohio squad.

The Southern assault will go from the split-T formation with Howard Converse of Lima handling the tricky quarterback job.

The Northern team will be captained by end Manzie Winters of Akron who will enroll at Purdue, tackle Jack Crangle of Akron who is headed for Northwestern, and quarterback Ike Grimmsley of Canton who is going to Michigan State.

Tackle Jim Tryer, 6-foot-6 247-pounder who will go to Ohio State, and fullback Bill (Cannonball) Cooper, 200-pound battering ram from New Philadelphia who has chosen Muskingum as his college, will captain the Rebels.

The 350 coaches enrolled in the week-long clinic were guests at a civic banquet Thursday night. Today's clinic sessions will be addressed by Coach Frank Howard of Clemons. More than 300 of the state's basketball coaches will hold their first clinic session.

The football game will be replete with colorful ceremonies, a queen will reign and the bands from Massillon and Alliance high schools perform.

Of the previous 11 games, the North has won five, the South four and two have been tied. Last year's game ended in a 19-19 deadlock.

Fresno, Calif. — Rudy Jordan, 139½, Los Angeles, outpointed Tommy Romulo, 136½, Philippines, 10.

In other tilts played, Marvels beat Jets 5-3, Kenmar shut out Old Dutch 2-0, and Westville defeated Kaiser 9-6.

The big inning for Parker's, leading 3-1, was the top of the fifth. Russell popped to short and Carmelo beat out an infield hit. Laughlin singled to right and Pridon hit his second home run of the night over the centerfield fence.

Hall singled to right and Oesch grounded out third to first. Hall moved to second and Baker walked. Harrigan reached on an error, loading the bases, and Haynam beat out an infield hit which brought in Hall. Baker was thrown out at the plate trying to score.

Kenmar scored one run in the first and another in the seventh. Bill "Babe" Herman of Old Dutch and Bob Shoff of Kenmar gave up five hits apiece to opposing batters.

In the first inning, Beatrice rolled out third to first. Mulch was safe on an error and Guy popped to short. Huda singled to right, Mulch taking third. Reesh grounded out to first unassisted.

Kenmar made it 2-0 in the seventh. Reesh fouled to first, Munyon hit a home run over the left field fence and Steitz was hit by a batted ball. Shoff walked, and was out at third when Hughes singled to center.

The Jets and Marvels battled to a 3-3 tie going into the bottom of the fifth inning. At this point the winners tallied two markers for the victory margin.

DiAntonio struck out and B. Zoccolo was safe on a two base error. Hahn walked, but A. Zoccolo forced him at second. Mellinger singled to right, scoring B. Zoccolo. A. Zoccolo then scored on an error.

First place Westville pushed across eight runs in the first three innings and then seemed to coast to victory, although Kaiser fought hard, scoring six times before the game was over.

The big inning for the winners was the first. Grove reached on an error and P. Drabill singled to center. Weizenecker then grounded out short to first with both runners advancing. Downey tripled to center to drive in two runs.

W. Krabil got an infield hit to drive in Downey. Russell reached on an error and both runners advanced on a wild pitch. Stowe was out stealing catcher to second and Knoch was out first unassisted.

Ike Must Assert Leadership Or Face Beating by Congress

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP)—Unless President Eisenhower asserts more leadership than he did in 1957, Congress may make a wreck of his last three years in the White House.

What happened to his foreign aid program Thursday night—the House cut it to ribbons—can well be a foretaste of things to come.

This year, instead of leading firmly, Eisenhower wobbled all over the Washington scene: backing away from what he proposed, turning cool on what he called for, and undercutting what he urged. He's chalked up a series of big losses.

In his first four years, Eisenhower followed a policy of avoiding personal conflict and offending no one. This kept him out of brawls with Congress and helped him retain his personal popularity.

And Congress was docile, if only because he was the most powerful political figure in the country. He was popular with the people and could still run for a second term. He did not want.

But under the recently amended Constitution, this must be his last term. He can't run again. Democrats haven't had to worry about him so much as a political force any more.

And, since he can't run again and carry them to victory, Republicans have lost some of their need for him too.

Yet Eisenhower continues to act as he did before the second term began, but more weakly and hesitantly: as if all he has to do is ask for what he wants and get it.

He doesn't seem to realize that now he has to fight.

Here are examples of how, instead of leading, he has floundered around in 1957 with disastrous results to what he said he wanted:

Budget—He had scarcely sent his record peacetime budget to Congress before he began saying maybe Congress could cut it. He talked so indecisively that Congress rushed in and slashed.

Then in desperation, to halt the massacre, he had to make a personal, nationwide TV appeal for public support.

Federal aid to education — He had called on Congress for years for this program. Almost at the instant the House began considering it, he turned cool. Why? The reason given was this:

It wasn't precisely the kind of program he wanted, although it was the only one he had a chance of getting. He sat silent while his own Republicans took the school aid bill up an alley and killed it.

They did it by joining Northern Democrats in writing in an amendment aimed at the South: no segregated school could get the money. Then they switched and joined Southern Democrats in voting to kill the bill entirely.

Through this ordeal Eisenhower never lifted a finger. But the next day the White House said he was disappointed.

Civil rights — All year he had been calling his civil rights bill "moderate and decent." But as soon as the Southerners opened up

CIO-AFL Leader Raps Teamsters

Union Fails to Polish Records, Meany Says

CHICAGO (AP)—The President of the AFL-CIO Thursday said the Teamsters Union has failed to polish its tarnished record, but cautioned against any restrictive labor legislation that might result from Senate racket investigations.

In the closing session of the four-day AFL-CIO Executive Council meeting, President George Meany told newsmen he doesn't think the Teamsters' linen is any cleaner now than it has been.

Meany was critical of proposals for restrictive labor legislation in the wake of the Senate Rackets Committee hearings.

"I feel a great many of the things that have come before the committee are covered by laws now on the books," he said.

If laws against thievery had been enforced, he said, "a lot of these men wouldn't be on the witness stand, but in the jailhouse."

The Teamsters' executive board is expected to meet Aug. 26 to consider possible action on AFL-CIO charges of corrupt influences against the union.

The accusation was leveled in May after Teamster President Dave Beck was accused of misusing some $400,000 in Teamster funds.

The AFL-CIO Ethical Practices Committee will submit a report on the case to be presented at an Executive Council meeting Sept. 24 and 25 in New York City.

Council recommendations will be laid before the Teamsters convention Sept. 30 in Miami Beach. The recommendations will outline steps the union must take to stay in the AFL-CIO.

Meany said he has "no opinion" on the possibility James R. Hoffa, Midwest Teamster boss, will succeed Beck as president.

Hoffa recently was acquitted of charges he planted a spy on the staff of the Rackets Committee to supply information about investigations to him.

The Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, biggest of the operating rail unions, has applied for AFL-CIO membership. Meany said it has 160,000 members.

He said jurisdictional and constitutional adjustments are necessary on behalf of the large independent before it can be admitted. One of these is a ban on Negro membership in the brotherhood's constitution.

Hodge, in Jail a Year, Says He's Been 'Punished Enough'

CHESTER, Ill. (AP)—Orville Hodge took a long look back today on his first year in prison and observed plaintively, "I've been punished enough."

"This year has seemed like 10 years," said Hodge, choking back the tears. "There's only one thing I think about in here—getting out. It's been awful and sometimes I get so lonesome."

The once flamboyant Illinois state auditor shook his head and said, "I still don't know what happened" in the mammoth state check cashing swindle which crashed down on him and sent him to Menard Penitentiary for 12 to 15 years.

"I'm not blaming anyone for my troubles," he added.

Hodge won't be eligible for parole consideration for another six years and three months, leaving executive clemency as the only avenue to freedom before that time. He said, however, he hasn't seriously considered asking the governor for leniency.

Hodge holds a $7.50-a-month job running the prison's radio system, preparing and showing films, and recording a weekly radio program put on by the inmates.

In disk jockey fashion, he also spins records to meet requests of the 2,300 convicts. Occasionally, he has done some announcing at prison ball games.

Adjustment to prison routine has come hard for the luxury-loving Hodge, but he said he began to acquire a new outlook on life after receiving his present assignment 11 weeks ago.

"Before that, I thought I'd go crazy," he said. "If it hadn't been for the Catholic chaplain, I believe I would have gone out of my mind. The inmates and the warden tell me I'm doing good work now."

Warden Ross Randolph agreed. "He gets a lot of compliments and the inmates say he's the best radio man we ever had here."

Interviewed in the third floor radio room where he works alone, Hodge, even in drab prison garb, retained traces of the fastidious, silk-suited appearance that marked his days as a prominent and free-spending Republican politician. His black shoes bore a bright polish and his brown wavy hair, gray at the temples, was neatly combed.

He was reluctant to talk about the embezzlement, which landed him in prison. He uttered harsh criticism of newspaper stories concerning the scandal and disputed reports on the amount he stole.

"Where do they get that 2½ million dollars?" he asked bitterly. "I was sent here for $650,000 and they're getting that back." The $650,000 figure was the approximate amount involved in the indictment to which he pleaded guilty.

"If I ever get out," he went on, "I won't have a dime left. They've taken all my property. But I could get a job. Maybe in Florida."

Hodge said he goes to church every Sunday, often reads the Bible in his cell, but can't sleep well.

His world now centers almost exclusively on the small radio quarters overlooking the main prison yard. The desk was crammed with canned food and oranges purchased at the commissary from his earnings. Neatly stacked in a drawer was a sheaf of letters from relatives and friends.

Each day, the job keeps him out of his cell 16 hours.

When he runs out of something to do, he takes the prison tape recorder apart and puts it back together, "just to keep mind and hands busy."

It is Hodge who also decides from a master control board which three outside radio stations are piped to the convicts' cells. Randolph said there had been no complaints about Hodge's selections.

The year behind prison walls appeared to have little effect on Hodge physically, although his weight has dropped 10 pounds from his normal 195. He has measured off the distance in the prison yard and keeps in trim by walking three to five miles four days a week.

For a cellmate, Hodge has an old-timer in for murder. Randolph said he is 10 years younger than Hodge, who will be 53 in October, but has been a good influence on the former state official.

Bright yellow is the safest protective color to wear in the woods during hunting season, according to tests recently made in California and Washington forests.

Defense to Put Stars on Stand in Libel Trial

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The defense expects to start tossing its promised shock-filled grenades today in the libel trial of Confidential and Whisper magazines.

Defense Attorney Arthur J. Crowley says he is going to bring movie stars into court to testify whether stories about them in the magazines are true.

The magazines and their alleged Hollywood agents, Fred and Marjorie Meade, are being tried on charges of conspiracy to commit libel and publish lewd and obscene matter.

The defense has scattered 117 subpoenas among Hollywood celebrities and is trying to slip 40 more into the hands of unwilling stars.

Crowley was left in a position to summon the celebrities when Superior Judge Herbert V. Walker Thursday declined to rule on the admissibility of their testimony until they take the stand. Judge Walker also refused to dismiss criminal libel charges against the Meades and their Hollywood Research, Inc.

Crowley said he would call eyewitnesses to prove the truth of a Confidential story which alleged that actress Maureen O'Hara and an unidentified "Latin boy friend" made love in the rear row of a Hollywood theater.

As for Miss O'Hara herself,

Crowley said: "Let the prosecution call her — we'll cross-examine."

Private detective Fred Otash, who has been serving subpoenas on prospective witnesses for Crowley, said he hadn't been able to find the red-haired actress.

"I think they've got her hiding out somewhere," he said.

Dep. Dist. Atty. William L. Fitz said that wasn't the reason Miss O'Hara hadn't been served.

"I hope they get her and put her on the stand," he said. "But they haven't got the courage to put that woman on the stand. They'd be bound by her answers."

MAN, 88, GETS DIVORCE
DALLAS (AP)—Dist. Judge Sarah Hughes granted a divorce to Ira Thomas Thaxton after he testified his wife preferred single beds and wouldn't let him chew tobacco. Thaxton is 88 and his former wife of 2½ months is 62.
